London, December 5.—The press association has reason to believe that the queen's speech will be devoid of any definite statement as to the Afghanistan policy of the government or the means of raising supplies for war. It will contain no programme for domestic legislation. This omission is considered to indicate a speech will mention, with satisfaction, the settlement of the fisheries question, and expresses hope that negotiations now in progress will remove all causes for future dispute. # THE DAILY CONSTITUTION.

ATLANTA, GA., THURSDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 5, 1878.

Washington, December 4.—The vicepresident appointed Ferry, Davis of Illinois, and Randolph, a committee to inquire in regard to the omission of the Hot Springclause from the enrolled copy of the sundry divil appropriation bill passed at the last session of congress. The committee was authorized by a resolution abbmitted by Mr. Conover yesterday.

Mr. Santsbury, of Delaware, introduced a bill relating to the redemption of United States legal-tender notes. Referred to committee on finance. It authorizes the secretary of the treasury in redeeming United States legal-tender notes, as required by special resumption act, to pay 75 per cent.
in standard silver dollars.

The preamble and resolution submitted by Mr. Harris, of Tennessee, on Monday last, providing for the appointment of a committee to inquire in regard to the best mans of preventing the introduction and spread of epidemic diseases, especial lyst low fever and choiers within the limits of the United States, was agreed to, with an smendment, providing that the committee shall consist of seven senators instead of four, and that it shall have power to six and act in conjunction with any similar committee of the house.

Mr. Matthews, of Ohio, submitted a motion to proceed to the consideration of the Terms Pacific railroad bill, but several selfstore opposed it on the ground that it would lead to a lengthy discussion, and that a matter of such importance should not be considered during the first week of the session,
The senate, by a rising vote of yeas 19, nays22, rejected the motion.

Mr. Edmunds gave notice that on Monday next he would call up for action the senate bill to amend sundry provisions, chapter I, fitte 3, revised statutes of the United States relating to presidential clear closes and to provide for and regulate the committee of the house.

Mr. Matthews, of Ohio, submitteed a motion to proceed to the consideration of the learning of votes for president and vicepresident and a decision of the questio

Secretary Sherman has received from San Francisco an offer of one million of trade dollars, deliverable there from China, within sixty days. He replied that the trade dollars will be bought as bullion upon bidseach Wednesday, and that no preference will be given to them over other bullion. There is a strong speculative feeling springing up to give silver bullion, in the form of trade dollars, a value greater than other bullion, thus discriminating in favor of bullion held in China against bullion in the hands of our miners. The total amount of trade dollars coined is $25,859,360. of course included a due attention to the negro yote. The negro had full swing. There were no tax qualifications in the way and every negro who had the face to present himself at the polls had his vote recorded. During the campaign the idea prevailed that the negro yote would determine the result. As a consequence, white men were virtually neglected. They would vote their sentiments and principles, with a few exceptions, anyhow, but the negro had to be looked after. He was looked after most effectually. Meetings in the interest of the various candidates in every ward, in some of them several meetings having been held, and all for the special benefit of the dearly beloved colored voter. The invitations to attend were principally extended to them, and the candidates harangued them with all the demangoureal and ad captandum arguments at command. The result was that the negro was given to understand that his vote controlled the destines of the candidates. He was promised everything—the white people were promised to the edition of the cost of government holding in their bands the property of white citizens. Ingnorance was at a premium, drunkenness won a prize and the property of white citizens. MINISTER OF A DATE OF A DA

The Constitution ATLANTA, GA., DECEMBER 5, 1878

THE purity of the ballot-box is a good thing to read about, and some Atlanta man ought to write an essay on it.

It was demonstrated yesterday that one nijohn of liquor contains nearly fifty negro votes. This sort of whisky should be analyzed by our legislative chemists

THE Washington Post demands the repeal of every remnant of the supervisor lederal election law. The Post is too democratic to accept anything less.

One more such election as that of ves terday will settle the question as to whether yotes are influenced by the merits of candidates or by whisky. The scenes at the polls were most dis-house yesterday, receiving a large majority of the votes. Georgia will soon be in a condition to flank the currency question. We hope the senate will give the bill as good a majority as the house has

THE bomb-throwers and assassins generally of Europe are coming down to business. Instead of assailing the kings of "the effete monarchies" they are pay ing their respects to the real rulers, the premiers. Count Andrassy and M. Tisza, the Hungarian premier, have already been attacked. And the end is not yet.

IF Mr. Hayes had been in Atlanta yesterday afternoon he would have discovered that the colored voter, so far from being intimidated at the ballot-box, has rights of his own irrespective of the rights of other people. We really regret that Mr. Hayes and some of his coadjutors were not present. They would have learned a very useful lesson in politics.

The legal nature of the two-million issue bonds to the trustees of the Cincinnati Southern road was submitted to the supreme court of Ohio on Tuesday of this week and a decision is expected in the course of another week. If the validity of the bonds is sustained by the court, the contractors must complete the road to Boyce's by August 26, 1879, or forfeit one thousand dollars for every day of ad-

Av act to provide for setting apart homesteads and exemptions under the new constitution, for the sale thereof, and for the reinvestment of the proceeds in other property is now before the senate. It is a substitute prepared by the judiciary committee to a bill introduced early in the session, and covers the whole sub ject thoroughly. It will pass the senate to-day. As soon as it becomes a law we will publish it. The law is plain and simple, and will be a decided improvement on the old law. All the defects in the old law have been mentioned.

In yesterday's paper an advertisement appeared casting an imputation upon the motives of a member of THE CONSTITU-TION staff in preparing an article on the late spiritual developments. The notice came in unnoticed through the business office as an advertisement. Had its contents been noticed it would not have appeared. It was false in its charges and nsinuations, and while the gentleman referred to is utterly careless of anonymous scribblers, it is due to him to say this much: There is no journalist in the state whose work is better than his, and no member of THE CONSTITUTION'S staff whose labors are more effective or more highly appreciated.

To Mr. Russell, of Chatham, is due the credit of having introduced a bill which, should it receive the force of law, will do more to preserve the political history of the state, and for the public enlightenment with regard to it, than any measur of legislation in the last fifty years. The official records and papers of the executive department, reaching from the time of Oglethorpe to the present day, we learn, are in a deplorable condition of neglect and confusion. Sherman made a omplete chaos of the whole concern as passed through Milledgeville on his so-called "grand march to the sea," and order has never been restored. Many of the records and papers are also fast falling into decay and need immediate attention. Much of this manuscript history has never been waded through by our past historians, and contains important facts that should be brought to light. We must save this history now or never. The executive minutes, except a few volumes of recent date looked after under Governor Sp administration, are without indexes, some of them not even paged, and hence are tantamount to sealed books so far as the public are concerned. Both the civil and military records, we are credibly informed, are in this sad condition, and it is next to impossible to find anything in relation to the past. This is a shame upon the state, a serious inconvenience to the government itself, and often the occasion of individual loss. It should not be so. Other states have regular, permanent officers to take charge of the ire election of Mr. Hayes was not been paid for?

Mr. Reid, as a matter of course, will not taking of the next census there would be impossible to find anything in relation to the supposed wickedness of the democrats in refusing to the other southern states. But what assurance have we that there will be an houset count? Mr. Alston, of DeKalb, opposed the amendment.

The amendment by Mr. Hutchins was lost. He stated that he did not desire the amendment to pass, but merely offered it to test the sense of the house.

Mr. McWhorter, of Greene, moved that the committee report the bill back to the house with the recommendation that it house with the recommendation that it pass.

Mr. Mynatt, of Fulton, opposed the motion and spoke against the bill, maintaining that it was unconstitutional. He also contended that the measure was bad in policy as well as dubious in its authority.

The motion to report the bill back to the house with recommendation that it do pass was agreed to. Yeas, 103; Nays, 27.

Speaker Bacon took the chair and Mr. Mathews amounced that the committee of the whole recommend the passage of the bill as amended by the house.

The report of the committee was agreed to.

The report of the committee was agreed to.

Mr. Garrard briefly replied to the argument of Mr. Mynatt in pointed remarks. He said the bill would be a great relief. The people are waiting for the bonds. A letter from Mr. Printup, of Rome, says $50,000 or $100,000 worth of these bonds could be floated in Rome. General Gordon favored the passage of the bill, and said it would act as a lever in Washington to break down the unjust taxation of state banks.

The yeas and nays were called on the passage of the bill.

The yeas were 127 and the nays 22, so the bill was passed.

The rules were suspended and Mr. Born, of Gwinnett, introduced a bill to require all land owners to have their land surveyed once in every ten years. Referred to the ommittee on agriculture.

Mr. Hall, of Spalding, offered a substitute for the paragraph which provided a regular per diem of $7 for the secretary of the senate and the clerk of the house, and provided that in no event should the entire cierical expenses of either house exceed $60 per diem.

There was considerable discussion on this substitute.

On the amendment a division was called. The yeas were 44 and the .nays 71, and the substitute was lost.

THE SPECIAL ORDER

was a bill by Mr. Garrard, of Muscogee, to be entitled an act authorizing the issue of bonds of Georgia for the redemption of certain bonds of the state of Georgia, falling due in the next three years, and to reduce the interest on the same. The bill was read.

The committee on finance reported in favor of the passage of the bill, with amendments, which was adopted.

Mr. Hall, of Spalding, asked that the bill be recommitted to the committee on the judiciary that members might be satisfied that all its provisions were constitutional.

Mr. Garrard, of Muscogee, opposed a recommittal, and argued to show there was nothing in the bill at all contrary to the provisions of the constitutional.

Mr. Cox. of Troup, said he conceived a very serious constitutional objection in the way of the passage of the bill.

Mr. Miller opposed any recommittal, and

As R. Samuel Hoyle is so apt at explanation, let him tell the public semething about his county and state bonds. Let him explain why the security on the county bond is not equal in amount to one half of the bond, while the security on his state bond is not equal to one-fifth of the bond? Also, why William Harvill left his bond? The tax payers of Fulton county would like to hear from Mr. Hoyle on this subject. R. Samuel Hoyle seems to consider me utterly insolvent. He had better take care. The day may come when he will want me to go on his bond. From its present appearance and R. Samuel Hoyle's opinion of my solvency, I am inclined to the belief that I am a fit subject. R. In conclusion, let me say that my article in the Post was an article of inquiry. In it I made not a single charge against R. Samuel Hoyle, either personal or otherwise. The Whitney Spread Spring. His said that "merit always wins," and the Whitney side-bar spring must certainly -possess this quality as it has steadily made its mark wherever it has had an opportunity for trial. For nearly half a century it has seemed that no other method than the elliptic and half-elliptic spring could be devised, which would carry a vehicle satisfactorily, but the Whitney seems to have obviated the difficulty. It is simple in construction, elegant in appearance and entirely practical, and all who use it become its admirers. Not only is greater ease secured, but likewise greater steadiness and strength and all these with but one-quarter the material ordinarily used. It has a full bearing in the four corners, which precludes all possibility of swaying tipping motion.
